Manager's Interim Review for the six months to 5 October 2011

The six months to 5 October 2011 was a turbulent period for equities. Equity markets had managed to survive several challenges in the first quarter of 2011, including a sharply higher oil price and the supply chain disruption from the earthquake in Japan only to buckle in the summer. Clearly, the barrage of uncertainty stemming from an escalation of the Eurozone debt crisis, the downgrading of US debt and the deterioration in economic data was simply too much to bear.

Of considerable concern has been the weakening of economic data, particularly the softer employment reports in the US. Leverage in the corporate sector is at lower levels than in 2008 and balance sheets are in a healthier state, yet deterioration in business confidence due to the uncertain economic outlook has ensured that an expected pick-up in corporate spending has not materialised. Equity markets, which attempt to look ahead, have been understandably troubled by both the near term economic weakness and the poorer visibility afforded by the fog generated by the Eurozone crisis – the initially dislocated response by European authorities only serving to exacerbate anxieties.

Until credible measures to resolve the Eurozone crisis are agreed, the volatility in the markets is likely to persist. The correction in equity markets has, however, exposed some attractive valuations and the dividend yields on many equities and the yields on corporate bonds relative to corresponding government bonds appear attractive in an environment of low interest rates and high inflation.

Investment Background

The period began reasonably well with markets recovering from March's disturbing chain of external events, most notably the earthquake in Japan. April thankfully delivered a more settled period for financial markets as investor focus turned to the quarterly earnings season. After initially trending lower on concerns over rising inflation and then by Standard and Poor's (S&P) placing US debt on negative watch, global equity markets finished April on firmer ground.

A more cautious tone gripped markets in May and June as concerns surrounding Greece's financial standing grew, causing the yield on the 10-year Greek government bond to rise, particularly as talk of a soft restructuring of Greek debt fuelled anxieties. The ending of the US Federal Reserve's second round of Quantitative Easing was also a cause of nervousness, given that one of the liquidity crutches that had supported the markets was about to be removed. Rising inflation in emerging markets continued to prompt monetary tightening, with China raising both interest rates and the reserve requirement ratio for large banks.

July was marred by unseemly spats between politicians. First, Eurozone politicians struggled to come to agreement on how to deal with the Eurozone debt crisis. National interests delayed a speedy response although they did ultimately agree to a multi-pronged bailout that involved some private sector involvement, together with easier loan terms for bailout countries – recognition that debt relief is needed alongside austerity measures if indebted nations hope to get back on an even keel. The squabbling in the US was on ideological lines as the Republicans and Democrats disagreed over raising the national debt ceiling. For a time it seemed that US politicians were prepared to play a game of brinkmanship with the US (and global) economy to score political points, with an extension only agreed at the eleventh hour. The sense of political drift was echoed in disappointing economic growth data, both in actual second quarter gross domestic product growth figures and in survey data.

S&P's downgrading the US debt from AAA to AA+ soured investor sentiment in early August, which was already shaken by intensifying worries about the Eurozone and ongoing deterioration in global economic data. Adding to the sense of unease was social discord on the streets of London as Britain's capital suffered several nights of riots. Equity markets hit a low in mid-August but remained volatile throughout August and September as sentiment oscillated between 'risk-on' and 'risk-off', largely driven by events in the Eurozone. Credit markets were similarly weak, with high yield bonds coming under pressure. Investors fled into so-called 'safe havens', driving down the yields on core government bonds, causing the price of gold to rocket and forcing Switzerland to introduce measures to prevent the Swiss Franc from reaching exorbitantly high levels.

Whilst European politicians sought to resolve the crisis there was a general feeling that the authorities were always one step behind the markets, doing too little too late, a fact not helped by the democratic process delaying the ratification of the European Financial Stability Facility, a €440 billion bailout fund to be used to support countries with funding difficulties. Even as countries were voting on the facility, commentators were already claiming it was too small and more would be needed to prevent contagion. By the period end, equity markets had recovered from their nadir but were sharply down from their early April levels. In contrast, government bonds had performed well in reflection of the risk-averse environment.

Investment Outlook

We are likely to see continued volatility in equity markets as investors adjust to a slowing global economic growth environment in both developed and emerging markets. Uncertainty over solutions to Eurozone peripheral countries' debt obligations is also fuelling instability in financial markets. While valuations have arguably adjusted to reflect this, politically solid and coordinated action to boost growth is needed to ensure equities do not overshoot on the downside as expectations for 2012 are reined in. Companies that are able to grow earnings in this environment are likely to see their stocks attract a premium.

On the fixed income side, while weaker risk appetite has caused government bonds to rally sharply, there is good fundamental value from the current yields on offer in corporate bonds. As bond markets are expected to remain volatile in the short term, the coming months should provide the opportunity to invest in good quality corporate bonds.

In the short term, corporate profitability may be satisfactory but if the absence of confidence persists the economic slowdown could turn into something more serious. Economic and market direction will, therefore, be dictated by the measures taken by governments and central banks to restore confidence.

Manager's Interim Review for the six months to 5 October 2011 (continued)

Important Events

During the reporting period Henderson Global Investors Limited (Henderson) received regulatory and investor approval for their proposed fund changes following the acquisition of Gartmore Group Limited by their parent company Henderson Group plc. As a consequence, Jessop Fund Managers Limited (JFML) also sought and received regulatory and investor approval for corresponding changes to Jessop Personal Pension Funds. All the events in the period detailed below were communicated to investors.

Events Relating to the Constituent Funds of the Jessop Personal Pension Trust

Jessop Personal Pension Fund Names

On 12 August 2011 JFML re-named all Jessop Personal Pension Fund names, removing the reference to underlying Fund Managers, Gartmore (GAR) and Legal & General (L&G). At the same time the Jessop (GAR) US Smaller Companies Personal Pension was re-named as Jessop US Growth Personal Pension Fund.

Jessop Personal Pension Fund Investment Objective and Policy

On 12 August 2011 JFML amended the investment objective and policy of each Jessop Personal Pension Fund to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors.

Events Relating to the Underlying Investments

Closure of the Gartmore Global Equity Quant Fund

On 19 April 2011 Henderson closed the Gartmore Global Equity Quant Fund. The Jessop (GAR) Global Equity Quant Personal Pension Fund was then invested in the underlying Gartmore Cash Fund.

The JFML Investment Oversight Committee (IOC) instructed JFML's Investment Adviser, Thesis Asset Management, to research the market for a suitable replacement underlying fund. Following an extensive research exercise and interviews with the managers of shortlisted funds, the IOC selected the Aberdeen World Equity Fund as the underlying fund to the Jessop fund. The fund selection was approved by the JFML board on 21 October 2011, communicated to investors on 25 October 2011 and implemented on 1 November 2011.

Gartmore Funds Adopt the Henderson Name

On 11 July 2011 Henderson re-named the majority of Gartmore funds, replacing Gartmore with Henderson. It is JFML's understanding that the Gartmore Long Term Balanced Fund retained the Gartmore name because Henderson will not retain the fund in the long term. The IOC has instructed Thesis Asset Management to research the market for a suitable replacement underlying fund. It is anticipated that this exercise will be completed during the next reporting period.

Gartmore/Henderson Fund Mergers

On 12 August 2011 Henderson merged five Gartmore funds into existing Henderson funds:

- Gartmore Cash Fund merged into Henderson Money Market Fund
- Gartmore Japan Opportunities Fund merged into Henderson Japan Enhanced Equity Fund
- Gartmore Pacific Opportunities Fund merged into Henderson Asia Pacific Capital Growth Fund
- Gartmore UK Growth Fund merged into Henderson UK Alpha Fund
- Gartmore UK Long Dated Gilt Fund merged into Henderson Long Dated Gilt Fund

Thank you for continuing to invest with Jessop. The stewardship and growth of your assets remains our total focus.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

Investment Activity

The portfolio is conservatively positioned both in respect of credit and liquidity management. The fund rose 0.17% over the period. The fund manager has sought to extend the maturity profile of the fund, investing in slightly longer term securities to gain a gentle uplift in the yield on the fund, whilst still maintaining the fund's very high level of liquidity. The fund is invested predominantly in short term certificates of deposit spread across a number of institutions.

Market Review and Outlook

There was a notable shift in sentiment over the period as investors became increasingly concerned about a slowdown in economic activity and the escalation of the Eurozone sovereign debt crisis. The seven day LIBOR rate climbed slightly over the period, closing at 20 basis points above the Bank of England's Bank Rate of 0.5%. As the Eurozone sovereign debt crisis intensified, European banks have found it harder to secure funding in the wholesale markets, pushing LIBOR rates higher.

Given the near term slowdown in both the UK and global economy and the second round of Quantitative Easing pursued by the Bank of England it is unlikely that the UK Bank Rate will rise in the near term from its current level of 0.5%. Inflation is likely to remain elevated, however, as rising import costs and high raw material prices have an upward impact on prices, particularly if Sterling responds to the fresh 'money printing' with further depreciation against the currencies of key trading partners. Countering this to some extent from January, will be the base effect of this year's rise in VAT falling out of the 2012 inflation figures.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in shares, which are more volatile than other investments such as cash or bonds, although you should bear in mind that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. This fund can invest in smaller companies which can be more risky than investing in larger companies due to lack of liquidity and increased volatility. As this fund invests globally changes in exchange rates may cause the value of investments to fall or rise. Also this fund invests in emerging markets, which tend to be more volatile than more established stock markets and therefore your money is at greater risk.

Important Information

- On 19 April 2011 Gartmore closed the Gartmore Global Equity Quant Fund and, following approval of the Trustees and the FSA, the Jessop (GAR) Global Equity Quant Fund invested in the underlying Gartmore Cash Fund. Therefore the Top Ten Holdings and Portfolio Breakdown as at 5 April 2011 are for the Gartmore Global Equity Quant Fund.
- On 12 August 2011 the Gartmore Cash Fund was merged into the Henderson Money Market Fund.
- On 1 November 2011 the investment in the Henderson Money Market Unit Trust was sold, and was replaced by the Aberdeen World Equity Fund.
- The investment objective and policy for this fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Gartmore (GAR). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

Investment Activity

The fund fell 11.3% over the period, with most of this decline occurring in the turbulent latter half of the period as equities sold off sharply on fears surrounding the escalating sovereign debt crisis and deteriorating economic data. The fund entered the second quarter of the period with a small overweight to equities, which had been predicated on the still robust earnings being reported by companies. As the year progressed the fund was affected by the sell-off in equities but held its ground at the nadir, reducing the equity overweight after share prices had recovered somewhat in late August and early September. The decision to move to a more neutral weighting in equities reflected the view that whilst a double-dip recession would be avoided, deteriorating economic data and weaker consumer/business confidence were making it increasingly likely that the economy would grow at a slower pace.

Within the equity holdings the fund was underweight in continental Europe, which suffered the most of any region and overweight in the US, which outperformed. The preference for the US reflects the view that the US will continue to grow moderately. The fund's European exposure was more defensive than the broader market, thanks to an overweight position in healthcare within the underlying portfolio. The fund continues to be gently underweight in bonds. Whilst this detracted from performance over the period, as government bonds performed well, the low yields on sovereign bonds mean that such bonds appear to offer little value over the long term. The fund increased its weighting to cash over the period, reflecting the portfolio's more defensive stance.

Market Review and Outlook

Equity valuations are attractive on both a relative and historical basis leading us to be cautiously optimistic. In the short term corporate profitability may be fine but if the absence of confidence persists the economic slowdown could turn into something more serious. Given that the direction of the markets and the economy is likely to be dictated in the near term by the policy measures taken by governments and central banks to restore confidence, we have removed our equity overweight position and are targeting a broadly neutral allocation to the asset class.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in equities, fixed interest securities, collective investment schemes, other transferable securities, money market instruments, warrants, cash and deposits. The collective performance and value of these investments is more risky than a cash or bond fund. Funds investing in overseas securities are exposed to and can hold currencies other than Sterling. As a result, exchange rate movements may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase. Smaller companies are riskier and less liquid than larger companies, which means their share price may be more volatile. Also this fund invests in emerging markets, which tend to be more volatile than more established stock markets and therefore your money is at greater risk.

Important Information

- The investment objective and policy for this fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Gartmore (GAR). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson Cautious Managed Fund fell by 4.7% over the period, outperforming its composite benchmark (50% FTSE All-Share Index, 50% MSCI World ex-UK Index), which dropped by 5.4%.

Investment Activity

The fund benefited from our consistently negative view of the mining and industrial sectors, whilst the fund's largest detractors included some of the other big defensives we did not own. GlaxoSmithKline, the pharmaceutical which continues to offer considerable value from a combination of strong cash flows and a growing dividend yield, was the fund's top stock contributor. Unilever, also known for its defensive qualities, performed well, as did mid-cap stocks William Hill and RPC Group. The bond portfolio saw some dramatically different showings with triple-A bonds continuing to move higher, while high yield, a small part of our overall exposure, had a difficult time.

Portfolio activity included the sale of support services firm Filtrona and Resolution, the life assurance consolidation vehicle, after strong performances, along with profit taking in London Stock Exchange Group. We took advantage of opportunities thrown up by the market falls and continued to add to large cap defensives such as Vodafone and Tesco, along with BP, at attractive levels. New holdings also included IT services firm Logica, engineering consultancy WS Atkins and First Group, the public transport business. Thomas Cook Group and Standard Life were among the other purchases. The sharp sell-off in equities was mirrored in some higher-yielding bonds and some good opportunities presented themselves, particularly when forced sellers emerged, as was the case of Rexam and Paragon. We also bought senior debt in Dutch telecom and cable company Ziggo. A short term rally in Irish bank debt allowed us to reduce our remaining small exposure; we also sold out of Egg Finance bonds.

Market Review and Outlook

Growing concerns over the global economic slowdown combined with renewed European sovereign debt issues led to a tough period overall for equities. Frequent panicky price moves have demonstrated scant regard for underlying value, resulting in high dividend yields but extremely low gilt and cash yields. Equities are as cheap as they have been for years. We remain cautious about global growth but hope to continue finding opportunities to raise equity weightings.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in a combination of bonds and shares. The fund performance and value is more volatile than a fund investing solely in cash or bonds, but less volatile than one investing in shares alone, although you should bear in mind that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. The yield generated is subject to fluctuation and it is not guaranteed and as this fund invests in high yielding bonds, there is an increased risk of capital erosion, through default or if the redemption yield is below the running yield. In addition, economic conditions and changes in interest rates can affect the values of high yielding bonds. Changes in exchange rates may also cause the value of investments to fall or rise.

Important Information

- On 11 July 2011 the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore Cautious Managed Fund).
- The investment objective and policy for this fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Gartmore (GAR). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson UK Alpha Fund fell by 23.6% over the period, underperforming the FTSE All-Share Index, which dropped by 13.9%.

Investment Activity

Fund performance was disappointing during the period as we underperformed the benchmark. Our worst performers tended to be resource-related stocks which suffered as commodity prices lost ground on the prospect of lower global growth. Our best performing positions tended to be the more defensive companies in the portfolio. Morrisons performed well as the supermarket chain continued to trade well in a challenging consumer environment. Bus and train operator First Group was also a strong positive contributor.

Early on, fund positions were initiated in speciality finance company 3i Group and Chemring, the military equipment maker, which provided exposure to a company with superior growth characteristics, both organic and acquisitive in nature. The fund's entire position in Tullow Oil was sold, as the tax dispute with the Ugandan government continued to drag on. Randgold was disposed; the shares had been weaker on the back of political unrest in the Ivory Coast and disappointing first quarter results. During the second half of the period, we initiated a position in Phosagro, the phosphate company, and completely sold out of Imperial Tobacco, which had performed very well for the fund. We added to our positions in oil giant BP and CPP, a leading provider of Life Assistance products and services, and trimmed positions in Sage, the accounting software group, Shaftesbury, the London property specialist, and broadcaster ITV.

Market Review and Outlook

The six months under review proved to be a difficult period for risk assets globally. The FTSE All-share Index fell 13.9% as investors worried about European sovereign debt issues, prospects of slowing global growth and the possibility of a hard landing for China.

Looking forward, we are hopeful of action to recapitalise European banks and do not believe we are about to see a material slowdown in growth in China. Therefore, we are reasonably confident on the outlook for UK equities, especially as current high levels of volatility are creating opportunities.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in shares, which are more volatile than other investments such as cash or bonds, although you should bear in mind that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. This fund can invest in smaller companies which can be more risky than investing in larger companies due to lack of liquidity and increased volatility.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson UK Index Fund fell by 14.7% over the period, marginally underperforming the FTSE All-Share Index, which dropped by 13.9%.

Investment Activity

The fund, which aims to track the returns of the FTSE All-Share Index by investing in UK company shares, was marginally behind the index over the period. Growing concerns over the global economic slowdown, combined with renewed European sovereign contagion issues surrounding the potential default of Greece, led to a tough period overall for equities. Investor confidence weakened resulting in a surge in demand for perceived safe havens. A mixture of rising inflation and weak growth forced the Bank of England to keep interest rates on hold, although calls for further Quantitative Easing grew stronger.

The overall UK equity market, as measured by the FTSE All-Share Index, fell steeply (-13.9%) as larger companies (FTSE 100 -13.4%) outperformed medium (FTSE 250 -16.9%) and smaller sized firms (FTSE Small Cap ex-Investment Trusts -16.1%) on a relative basis. Defensive stocks such as those in the pharmaceutical, mobile telecoms, utilities and tobacco sectors performed relatively better, while cyclical sectors including industrials and mining, along with Banks, were the main laggards. The biggest contributors to index points were GlaxoSmithKline, British American Tobacco, Vodafone and AstraZeneca. Conversely, miners Rio Tinto, BHP Billiton, Xstrata, which fell on fears of a significant slowdown in global growth, along with Barclays and HSBC banks, which fell on concerns over their exposure to Eurozone sovereign debt, hurt the index the most.

Market Review and Outlook

UK equities made gains early on but overall it was a very tough period for all asset classes, driven predominantly by the problems surrounding the Eurozone. Until a solution is found to solve the European debt crisis, investor confidence is unlikely to improve and we may see a further slowdown in global growth. However, the corporate sector is stronger than a couple of years ago, allowing well-managed and well-positioned companies to weather current market conditions.

Risk Profile

The underlying security tracks and invests in the FTSE All-Share Index and is not actively managed. The performance and value of shares is more volatile than other investments such as cash or bonds, although you should bear in mind that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. This fund invests in smaller companies which may be more risky than investing in larger companies due to the lack of liquidity and increased volatility. The fund is aimed at investors looking to invest for the medium to long term, who are prepared to accept fluctuations in the value of their capital, including capital loss.

Important Information

- On 11 July 2011 the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore UK Index Fund).
- The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Gartmore (GAR). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors Investment Summary

The Henderson UK & Irish Smaller Companies Fund fell by 13.6% over the period, outperforming the FTSE Small Cap ex-Investment Trust Index, which dropped by 16.1%.

Investment Activity

The overweight to technology proved rewarding, with strong gains from Innovation Group, Gresham Computing, iomart and Clearstream technologies, which received a takeover approach in September at an 87% premium. The relative resilience of price-comparison website Moneysupermarket.com added value after a strong update. The underweight to financials and industrials aided performance but there were some good gains from stocks in the portfolio such as RPC Group, the plastics packaging firm, and Avon Rubber. The main detractor over the period was Firestone Diamonds, which saw significant weakness in sympathy with other commodity stocks. Travelzest, along with the whole travel industry, also gave up ground.

We exited Greencore mid-way through the period as food producers are increasingly being squeezed by rising input costs and promotional activity by supermarkets. We also reduced our industrials exposure with sales of Senior (aerospace), Elementis (chemicals) and Futura Medical, whilst UK Mail was disposed on evidence of weaker shipping volumes. Blinx, the video search engine company, was sold after a strong run and Chaucer Holdings disposed of after a takeover proposal from fellow insurer Hanover. On market weakness we added to Northgate Vans, Yule Catto, and Bloomsbury Publishing. New names in the fund included mobile communications tester Anite, Quintain Developments, logistics company Wincanton, EKF (medical) Diagnostics and touch screen manufacturer Zytronic. The striking deal late on was Clearstream. At a price/earnings multiple of less than 10 before the approach, with no debt, revenue growing circa 20% and a leading market position in a new niche it could be described as anything but cheap. As ever, our approach remains rooted in identifying attractive stock specifics like this.

Market Review and Outlook

UK equities made gains early on but overall it was a very tough period for all asset classes, driven predominantly by the problems surrounding the Eurozone crisis. The fear is that uncertainty and political inertia spill into the confidence and decision-making of corporate management teams and risk turning market instability into an economic slowdown. Conversely valuations in the small cap space remain compressed. We expect the trend of large companies consolidating smaller ones to continue.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in shares, which are more volatile than other investments such as cash or bonds, although you should remember that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. The fund will be significantly invested in smaller companies which may be more risky than investing in larger companies due to lack of liquidity and increased volatility. As this fund invests in the Republic of Ireland as well as in the UK, changes in exchange rates may cause the value of investments to fall or rise.

Important Information

- On 11 July the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore UK & Irish Smaller Companies Fund).
- The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson US Opportunities Fund underperformed its benchmark over the period in this review, returning -22.5% versus a return of -8.4% by the latter.

Investment Activity

At a stock level, in the first half of the period positive contributions came from Intuitive Surgical (precision castparts) and Ultra Salon (cosmetics and fragrance) whereas key detractors included OGX Petroleo e Gas Participacoes, Jefferies Group and Williams-Sonoma. In the latter half, top contributors included Apple, Amazon.com and Ultra Salon while First Horizon, First Niagara and General Motors were among the key detractors. In terms of sectors, in Q2 11 our overweight in industrials was a key contributor while overweights in financials and consumer discretionary and underweight in health care detracted. In the second half, a lack of exposure to materials added to performance, while financials, energy and consumer staples were the key detractors.

In the first half of the period the fund bought BB&T, Occidental Petroleum and Ross Stores and sold Wells Fargo, OGX Petroleo e Gas Participacoes and JP Morgan Chase. We swapped out of Wells Fargo into BB&T, a North Carolina-based spread lender that had an attractive valuation with strong upside potential.

In the latter half, the fund bought Ralph Lauren, National Oilwell Varco and Panera Bread. Ralph Lauren, is expanding its global luxury brand into under-penetrated markets in Europe and Asia. Energy services company, National Oilwell Varco, is well positioned to benefit from deep water drilling and the increase in shale oil and gas exploration and production. Panera Bread is a differentiated restaurant concept, which is growing units at 7-8% per year. The fund sold Walt Disney, State Street and Ultra Petroleum.

Market Review and Outlook

In the first half of the period US equity market sentiment ricocheted from one extreme to another as the economic recovery initially seemed to be running too hot, then lost momentum. The second half of the period, was an ultra challenging one for US stocks, characterised by a deteriorating outlook for global economic growth, absence of a clear strategy for containing the European financial crisis, and signs of strain in the credit markets among others. As a result, stocks have effectively discounted a very dire outlook for economic growth.

We see matters differently. We have marked down our expectations for growth in many developed markets, however, emerging market growth remains robust and, coupled with moderating inflation, should continue to bias worldwide economic activity levels higher. We do not believe the US will tip back into recession, and that even a modest improvement in the news flow could have a positive impact and help boost economic growth.

Risk Profile

This fund invests in shares, which are more volatile than other asset classes such as cash or bonds. The fund may hold concentrated positions. If one of these concentrated positions declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater effect on the fund's value than if it held less concentrated positions. The fund may invest in smaller companies, which can be more risky than larger companies due to a lack of liquidity and increased volatility. The shares of smaller companies may be subject to more abrupt price movements than shares of larger companies. As the fund invests abroad, it is exposed to changes in exchange rates which may cause the value of investments to fall or rise independently of the underlying holdings. This fund primarily invests in a single market which can be subject to particular political and economic risks. The Manager may invest in markets other than the primary market and the fund may therefore be exposed to risks in these markets.

Important Information

1. On 11 July the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore US Opportunities Fund).
2. The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson US Growth Fund underperformed its benchmark over the period in this review, returning -12.0% versus a return of -8.4% by the latter.

Investment Activity

In terms of stocks in the first half of the period Tiffany, Nike and Amazon.com were among the top contributors. Tiffany rose after reporting exceptionally strong global same store sales and Nike rebounded from a disappointing first quarter. Key detractors included Goldman Sachs, Citigroup and EOG resources. In the second half, Apple, TJX and McDonald's were among the best contributors. Record iPhone sales globally drove Apple's revenues, and McDonald's delivered its one hundredth consecutive month of positive global comparable sales. Key detractors included Halliburton, Dow Chemical and Baidu. By sector, in Q2 overweight in consumer discretionary was a key contributor while underweight in healthcare detracted. In Q3 the best sectors were financials and consumer discretionary. Software and services, pharmaceuticals and energy were key detractors.

In the first half of the period, the fund bought Biogen Idec, Visa and Coach. Biogen Idec posted good trial results for its Multiple Sclerosis drug, BG-12. We re-established our position in Visa after the multiple de-rated and concerns about regulatory risk appeared to be reflected in the stock price. The fund sold Wells Fargo, Citigroup and Goldman Sachs.

In the latter half of the period, the fund bought Accenture, Google and Red Hat and sold EOG Resources, PNC Financial Services Group and ACME Packet. EOG struggled as floods in the US Bakken field slowed natural gas production in the quarter. We exited PNC on heightened concerns that potential regulation could call for larger reserves thereby dampening return on equity. Acme delivers hardware and software to internet service providers and we were concerned that service providers could reduce orders in a slow growth environment.

Market Review and Outlook

In the first half of the period US equity market sentiment ricocheted from one extreme to another. The second half of the period, was an ultra challenging one for US stocks, characterised by a deteriorating outlook for global economic growth, absence of a clear strategy for containing the European financial crisis, and signs of strain in the credit markets. As a result, stocks have effectively discounted a very dire outlook for economic growth.

We see matters differently. We have marked down our expectations for growth in many developed markets, however, emerging market growth remains robust and, coupled with moderating inflation, should continue to bias worldwide economic activity levels higher. We do not believe the US will tip back into recession, and that even a modest improvement in the news flow could have a positive impact.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in shares, which are more volatile than other asset classes such as cash or bonds. The fund may hold concentrated positions. If one of these concentrated positions declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater effect on the fund's value than if it held less concentrated positions. The fund may hold a limited number of investments. If one or more of these investments declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater impact on the fund's value than if a larger number of investments were held. The investment approach for this fund may involve a high level of investment activity and turnover of investments, which may generate substantial transaction costs which will be borne by the fund. As the fund invests abroad, it is exposed to changes in exchange rates which may cause the value of investments to fall or rise independently of the underlying holdings. This fund primarily invests in a single market which can be subject to particular political and economic risks. The Manager may invest in markets other than the primary market and the fund may therefore be exposed to risks in these markets.

Important Information

- On 11 July the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore US Growth Fund).
- The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to Jessop US Growth Personal Pension Fund (formerly the Jessop (GAR) US Smaller Companies Personal Pension Fund) to better reflect the investment objectives. All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors’ Investment Summary

The fund outperformed the benchmark returning -17.8% compared to a -22.4% return for the FTSE World Europe ex UK Index over the six-month period to 5 October 2011.

Investment Activity

The largest sector contributors to performance over the period were overweights in consumer goods and healthcare as well as an underweight to industrials. The fund’s underweight in financials also contributed positively. The main detractors were telecoms and our index futures positions. At the stock level, the best performing positions included pharmaceuticals Novartis, Roche and Sanofi while Fugro, the geotechnical services provider, energy company GDF SUEZ and telcos Telefónica and Koninklijke KPN detracted.

In the first half of the period we introduced several holdings including German bank Commerzbank and Alstom, a French engineering group. We also invested in Dutch nutrition and chemical company DSM following constructive conversations with management, however the position was then sold on concerns that the industry faces a slowdown over the rest of the year. Disposals included telecom names France Télécom and TeliaSonera, as weak numbers were released across the sector. We also disposed of financial names Skandinaviska Enskilda Banken, Svenska Handelsbanken and Unicredit and Dutch telecom KPN following forecasts of flat revenue growth. In the second half of the period we added a EuroStoxx banks index future and utilised futures contracts on the CAC and DAX indices to equitise cash and keep the fund fully invested. Other additions included Royal Dutch Shell and Swedish industrial SKF. Several names were disposed among these were Credit Suisse, Commerzbank, DNB Nor, Swedbank, L’Oreal and Givaudan.

Market Review and Outlook

Macroeconomic conditions continued to dictate the course of equities over the last six months. Ongoing concerns surrounding sovereign debt increased volatility in global equity markets and fears of a break-up of the Euro fuelled the downward pressure on stock prices.

We believe that while European equities may well have further short term downside, the fact that markets are in the mood to rally can only mean a solution to the European situation is nearer at hand. With investors chasing the ‘safety’ of fixed income yields and equities slumping to compelling values, it is hardly the juncture to be turning bearish. Quite the opposite. Blue chip bargains help remind us that bull markets are born in recessions.

Risk Profile

This underlying security invests in shares, which are more volatile than other asset classes such as cash or bonds. The fund may hold concentrated positions. If one of these concentrated positions declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater effect on the fund’s value than if it held less concentrated positions. The investment approach for this fund may involve a high level of investment activity and turnover of investments, which may generate substantial transaction costs which will be borne by the fund. As the fund invests abroad, it is exposed to changes in exchange rates which may cause the value of investments to fall or rise independently of the underlying holdings. The fund may trade instruments, the performance of which depends on the continued solvency of the counterparties to the trades.

Important Information

- On 11 July 2011 the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore European Growth Fund).
- The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund’s investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

In the six-month period to 5 October 2011, the fund returned -0.9%.

Investment Activity

During the first half of the review period, the fund's outperformance stemmed from a combination of sector allocation in healthcare and utilities and stock selection within the IT and telecoms sectors.

While the second half of the period was marked by renewed corporate activity in Japan, it remained difficult to extract value. Deals that are of a size and liquidity suitable for the fund, trade almost instantly to discounts that offer little upside. Our discipline in maintaining some level of protection in the portfolio contributed positively over the quarter.

Market Review and Outlook

The initial period was marked by the slow release of information regarding the economic impact and operational consequences of the Tōhoku earthquake and tsunami on businesses across the country. The ongoing nuclear disaster at Fukushima power plant only served to compound these effects as well as to maintain an element of the unknown. In this environment, the market tracked sideways over the quarter, ending slightly lower in local terms, although offsetting this was the Japanese Yen remaining strong resulting in a slight gain for the TOPIX in Sterling terms. Japanese equities performed well in the latter part of the period and returns for foreign investors were further improved by the appreciation of the Yen. While the outlook remains uncertain for the global economy and high levels of risk persist, the opportunities are also high. We therefore look to maintain our exposures in favoured positions while maintaining the macro protection that has served us well in the past.

Risk Profile

This fund invests in shares, which are more volatile than other asset classes such as cash or bonds. The fund may invest in smaller companies, which can be more risky than larger companies due to a lack of liquidity and increased volatility. The shares of smaller companies may be subject to more abrupt price movements than shares of larger companies. As the fund invests abroad, it is exposed to changes in exchange rates which may cause the value of investments to fall or rise independently of the underlying holdings. This fund primarily invests in a single market which can be subject to particular political and economic risks. The Manager may invest in markets other than the primary market and the fund may therefore be exposed to risks in these markets.

Important Information

- On 12 August 2011 the Gartmore Japan Opportunities Fund merged into the Henderson Japan Enhanced Equity Fund. Therefore the Top Ten Holdings and Portfolio Breakdown shown as at 5 April 2011 are for the Gartmore Japan Opportunities Fund.
- The investment objective and policy detailed above changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Gartmore (GAR). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson Asia Pacific Capital Growth Fund fell 29.01% over the period, underperforming the MSCI AC Asia ex Japan Index, which fell 21.44%.

Investment Activity

During the second quarter, positive contributors included Hyundai Glovis and Hyundai Motor in Korea as well as Bank Mandiri in Indonesia. Among the detractors were CITIC Pacific, CNOOC and Ping An Insurance. Indian stocks also hurt performance led by Infosys. In the third quarter, Industrial and Commercial Bank of China and Agile Property were weak as a result of fears over the Chinese economy. Sands China was also weak following previous strong performance and Gome fell over misgivings about the setting up of a property joint venture with the company's majority shareholder. Samsung Electronics performed well as it continued to deliver strong growth in its smartphone business.

In the June quarter, the main changes to the portfolio included a new position in luxury consumer brand owner Prada. We also established a new holding in Tata Motors, India's largest automotive group. China's dominant internet search company Baidu was also added during the quarter. Key sales were Noble Group and Singapore Exchange. Key purchases over the third quarter included Zhuzhou CSR Times Electric, the highly profitable supplier of heavy electrical motors to the Chinese railway industry. A new holding was also added in Citic Securities, one of China's leading investment banks and stockbrokers. Key sales to fund these purchases included Bharat Heavy Electrical, the Indian engineer, which faces increased competition in the India power equipment market. Ping An, the Chinese insurer, was also sold as rising costs have led to a deterioration in the outlook for profit growth.

Market Review and Outlook

Asian markets were broadly flat in the second quarter of 2011. Indonesia and the Philippines were the strongest performers over the period. Shares in Chinese companies listed in Hong Kong and the US performed badly. The third quarter was difficult for global equity markets. Asia sold off sharply as a result of fears over the US economy, the Eurozone debt crisis and the outlook for China.

The outlook remains uncertain. We believe that China's problems are cyclical in nature. The situation in Europe and the US remains difficult but markets are likely to rally on any sign of a solution to the Eurozone debt crisis or indications that the US can avoid recession.

Risk Profile

This fund invests in shares, which are more volatile than other investments such as cash or bonds, although you should bear in mind that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. This fund will invest in emerging markets which tend to be more volatile than more established stock markets and therefore your money is at greater risk. As this fund invests in overseas shares, changes in exchange rates may cause the value of investments to fall or rise.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson Emerging Markets Opportunities Fund fell 27.37% over the period, underperforming the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, which fell 24.64%.

Investment Activity

In the June quarter, Chinese insurer PICC and gambling firm Wynn Macau added value. PICC gained ground as analysts raised earnings expectations. In terms of detractors, Indian construction firm IVRCL was caught up in the sell-off there. Elsewhere, Russian steel name MMK disappointed, and we exited from the position. In the third quarter, LG Household and Healthcare, a Korean consumer products conglomerate performed well as did CLP Holdings, a Hong Kong electric utility viewed by many as a 'safe haven'. Russian supermarket chain Magnit dropped sharply, earlier in the quarter, after reporting a decline in sales margins.

In the June quarter, the fund bought Uralkali and Unicom. Russian potash producer Uralkali enjoys government support. China Unicom is the number two phone company in China. With the best technology and a widening range of phones for sale, we expect higher revenues and rapidly expanding operating profits over the medium term. We sold some of our holdings in Korea's Hyundai Motor, as well as associate Kia Motors. During the third quarter, the fund bought Chambal Fertilizer, one of India's largest fertilizer producers and distributors, which should benefit from deregulation in the sector. Russian telecom firm Mobile Telesystems was added as its move into 'smart-phone' distribution should see more profitable use of its network. The fund sold Aneka Tambang, an Indonesian mining company whose projects look increasingly uncertain due to environmental regulations and financing uncertainty.

Market Review and Outlook

Strong food prices and wage growth continued to drive monetary policy in emerging markets. Global emerging markets fell sharply in the third quarter as global risk aversion accelerated. This quarterly performance of the markets was one of the worst on record, reflecting deep investor anxiety over Europe's financial crisis.

The immediate outlook for emerging markets remains clouded by the ongoing financial crisis surrounding Europe.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in shares, which are more volatile than other asset classes such as cash or bonds. The fund may hold concentrated positions. If one of these concentrated positions declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater effect on the fund's value than if it held less concentrated positions. The fund may invest in smaller companies, which can be more risky than larger companies due to a lack of liquidity and increased volatility. The shares of smaller companies may be subject to more abrupt price movements than shares of larger companies. The investment approach for this fund may involve a high level of investment activity and turnover of investments, which may generate substantial transaction costs which will be borne by the fund. The fund may invest in emerging markets which tend to be more volatile than more established markets and therefore your money could be at greater risk. Other risk factors such as political and economic conditions should be considered. As the fund invests abroad, it is exposed to changes in exchange rates which may cause the value of investments to fall or rise independently of the underlying holdings.

Important Information

- On 11 July 2011 the underlying security adopted the Henderson name (formerly the Gartmore Emerging Markets Opportunity Fund).
- The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Gartmore (GAR). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

The Henderson Long Dated Gilt Fund slightly underperformed its benchmark over the period in this review, returning 19.6% versus a 20.4% return by the latter.

Investment Activity

During the six months period, the fund exploited a number of directional and relative value opportunities within the gilt and other core government bond markets. We started the period positioned for inflation expectations in the UK to increase in the 25-year area at a time when there was supply of index-linked gilts. This position was profitably closed after some weeks and a new strategy was initiated for 40-year gilts to outperform 15-year gilts.

As core government bond yields continued to fall to historic lows, we took a predominantly negative stance to government bond markets in the latter half of the period, primarily in Australian government bonds, but also in the US, UK and European markets. Our directional positions made a loss during this time, but we retain a small negative bias given the historically low yield levels currently available on these bonds.

Another strategy pursued in the latter half of the period was positioning for inflation expectations to rise in the UK, as the economic environment deteriorated, we also positioned the fund for inflation expectations to fall in Europe. These inflation strategies made a small loss, although our relative value positions made money, in particular positioning the fund for intermediate yields to fall relative to both long dated and short dated yields.

Market Review and Outlook

Core government bonds rallied during the period. Gilt yields fell and prices rose initially on concerns over a slowdown in the global economy attributed to the high oil price, unusual weather conditions and supply chain disruptions post the Japanese earthquake. The prospect of lower growth then led the market to pare back its expectations for interest rate rises in the UK.

Risk assets continued to perform poorly as the European sovereign debt crisis intensified in the second half of the period and global growth continued to lose momentum. It is expected that markets will continue to remain volatile in the coming months. Confidence based measures have fallen sharply and stresses in financial markets suggest that the risk of a recession have risen markedly.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in Gilts issued by the UK government which tend to be less volatile than other investments such as equities or corporate bonds. The fund may hold concentrated positions. If one of these concentrated positions declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater effect on the fund's value than if it held less concentrated positions. The fund may hold a limited number of investments. If one or more of these investments declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater impact on the fund's value than if a larger number of investments were held. This fund primarily invests in a single market which can be subject to particular political and economic risks. The manager may invest in markets other than the primary market and the fund may therefore be exposed to risks in these markets.

Important Information

- On 12 August 2011 the Gartmore UK Long Dated Gilt Fund merged with the Henderson Long Dated Gilt Fund. Therefore the Top Ten Holdings shown as at 5 April 2011 are for the Gartmore UK Long Dated Gilt Fund.

L&G's Investment Summary

Investment Activity

The L&G All Stocks Index Linked Gilt Index Trust rose by 10.64% over the period, underperforming the FTSE A (Index Linked) British Government (All Stocks) Index, which rose by 11.67%.

The fund manager believes that successful index tracking strikes a balance between close matching of the index and the management of trading costs. All the bonds in the portfolio are held broadly in line with their index weights, ensuring close tracking of the index. The Trust provides access to the entire index linked gilt market, whilst reducing risk by avoiding duration positions.

Market Review and Outlook

Summer illiquidity probably exaggerated market moves, with credit markets reversing all of the year's excess return over government bonds in a little over two weeks. On a positive note, unlike the equity market, credit has benefitted from the strength of underlying government debt over the period, which means that total returns for 2011 remain strong.

Though inflation remained firmly above target, index linked issues underperformed conventional gilts as the fragility of the recovery and a flight from peripheral Eurozone bond markets highlighted the attractions of gilts. In July the Bank of England's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) voted in favour of holding interest rates.

Against the backdrop of ongoing turmoil in peripheral Eurozone bond markets, gilts remained among the leading beneficiaries of 'safe haven' buying. While the uncertainty surrounding the deepening Eurozone crisis continues to weigh on the outlook for global growth, the 'stickiness' of near term inflation further supported inflation-protected gilts. The latest inflation data showed that the UK consumer price index rose to 5.2% in September.

The MPC are now broadly in agreement that interest rates should remain on hold, and in October voted to maintain the official cash rate at 0.5% but increase the stock of asset purchases (Quantitative Easing) to £275 billion.

Pessimism prevails on the UK economy. The fund manager believes the UK economy will expand by just 1% during 2011 with the possibility of a negative quarterly growth reading within the next six months, whilst inflation will continue to rise through the autumn, easing to 2.2% in 2012.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in fixed income securities, which are less volatile than shares, but more volatile than cash, although you should bear in mind that the value of all investments can go down as well as up. The yield generated is subject to fluctuation and it is not guaranteed. This fund holds a limited number of investments. If one or more of these investments declines in value, or is otherwise affected, this may have a greater impact on the fund's value than if a larger number of investments were held.

Important Information

1. The investment objective and policy of the fund changed on 12 August 2011 to better reflect the fund's investment approach and introduce sufficient flexibility to allow the Manager to protect the interests of investors. Also at this time the fund name was changed to remove the reference to Legal & General (L&G). All changes were approved at an extraordinary general meeting of unitholders.

Henderson Global Investors' Investment Summary

Investment Activity

Protecting the safety and liquidity of the fund's assets continues to be the focus of the fund manager and, as such, the portfolio is conservatively positioned both in respect of credit and liquidity management. The fund rose 0.17% over the period. The new fund manager has sought to extend the maturity profile of the fund, investing in slightly longer term securities to gain a gentle uplift in the yield on the fund, whilst still maintaining the fund's very high level of liquidity. The fund is invested predominantly in short term certificates of deposit spread across a number of institutions.

Market Review and Outlook

There was a notable shift in sentiment over the period as investors became increasingly concerned about a slowdown in economic activity and the escalation of the Eurozone sovereign debt crisis. The seven day LIBOR rate climbed slightly over the period, closing at 20 basis points above the Bank of England's Bank Rate of 0.5%. As the Eurozone sovereign debt crisis intensified, European banks have found it harder to secure funding in the wholesale markets, pushing LIBOR rates higher.

Given the near term slowdown in both the UK and global economy and the second round of Quantitative Easing pursued by the Bank of England it is unlikely that the UK Bank Rate will rise in the near term from its current level of 0.5%. Inflation is likely to remain elevated, however, as rising import costs and high raw material prices have an upward impact on prices, particularly if Sterling responds to the fresh 'money printing' with further depreciation against the currencies of key trading partners. Countering this to some extent from January, will be the base effect of this year's rise in VAT falling out of the 2012 inflation figures. Banks remain under funding pressure so we anticipate interbank rates remaining above the official Bank Rate as credit concerns persist.

Risk Profile

The underlying security invests in cash deposits and cash related instruments. The fund may hold concentrated positions. If one of these concentrated positions declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this can have a greater effect on the fund's value than if it held less concentrated positions. The fund may trade instruments, the performance of which depends on the continued solvency of the counterparties to the trades. The yield is subject to fluctuation and is not guaranteed.

Statement of the Manager's Responsibilities

The Manager

The Collective Investment Schemes Sourcebook (COLL) requires the Manager to prepare financial statements for each financial period which give a true and fair view of the financial position of the Trust at the year end, and of the net income/expenditure and net gains/losses on the property of the Trust for the year.

The financial statements must comply with the disclosure requirements of the Statement of Recommended Practice (the SORP) for Authorised Funds issued by the Investment Management Association in October 2010, COLL and any relevant provision of the Trust Deed.

In preparing the financial statements the Manager is required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently,
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent,
- follow generally accepted accounting principles and applicable accounting standards, and
- prepare the financial statements on a going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Trust will continue in operation.

The Manager is also responsible for keeping such accounting records as are necessary to enable it to ensure that the financial statements comply with COLL, the SORP and the Trust Deed.

The Manager is responsible for the management of the Trust in accordance with its Trust Deed, Prospectus and the COLL, and for taking all reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities arising in the course of its investment activities.

Cautionary Note

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and the income from them may go down as well as up and you may not get back your original investment. Emerging markets tend to be more volatile than more established stock markets and therefore your money is at greater risk. Other risk factors such as political and economic conditions should also be considered. Funds investing in overseas securities are exposed to and can hold currencies other than Sterling. As a result, exchange rate movements may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase. The level of yield may be subject to fluctuation and is not guaranteed. The difference between the redemption and the running (or income) yield is that the redemption yield gives a more long term view, taking into account expected capital repayments as well as income payments should the bonds in the fund be held for 10 years. The running (or income) yield gives an indication of the income to be paid based on the fund's current bond holdings. When a fund holds high yielding bonds there is an increased risk of capital erosion through default or if the redemption yield is below the income yield. You should also be aware that economic conditions and changes to interest levels may significantly impact the values of high yield bonds.

As a constituent fund is not a legal entity, if the assets attributable to any constituent fund were insufficient to meet the liabilities attributable to it, the shortfall might have to be met out of the assets attributable to one or more of the other constituent funds.

More detailed information on the different funds' risk factors is contained in the relevant Key Features Documents and Prospectus.
